

ENGLAND'S MAN OF MYSTERY

Capt. Gordon Campbell, England's "Man of Mystery," has just been decorated with the Victoria Cross. Great secrecy has involved the reason for the award, as in the past when Campbell received the D. S. O. and similar awards for conspicuous gallantry. It is believed that Campbell was the man in command of the decoy ship "050" which succeeded in obliterating many German submarines.

GLEN DEAN

Many from here attended the State Fair last week.

Joe Brite and two sons were here Saturday from Vanzant, Ky.

Miss Emma Lou Moorman has returned from Louisville.

Miss Rosa Lou Ditto spent the week end at her home in Hardinsburg.

Rev. Reid from Irvington will preach at the Baptist church on the 4th Sunday.

Rev. Johnson will preach at the Methodist church on the 4th Saturday afternoon and at night.

Mrs. James A. Dean and daughter, Thelma are spending a few days in Louisville the guests of Mr. Jeff Owen and family.

Miss Jackie Powell who has been working as a stenographer for Bond Bros. at Elizabethtown, has been transferred to some where in Alabama. She is the kind that makes good.

Mrs. Roy Whittinghill and Miss Irene Powell are visiting their aunt, Mrs. Pecknappaugh and Mrs. Atkins near Sample.

Mrs. Joe M. Cooper of Vanzant recently visited J. T. and C. W. Jones.

Mrs. J. C. Tifford of Madison, Ind., recently visited her sister, Mrs. Ernest Eskridge.

Mrs. J. M. Howard has just returned from a trip to points in the East. She was accompanied to Atlantic City by her daughter, Mabel of Washington, where on the coast they very much enjoyed the pleasant ocean breeze from off the Atlantic. It is quite interesting to hear her tell of the queer customs in the East. She says she likes the southern people much better and Kentucky's best of all.

RED CROSS SOCIETY

Portable wooden huts for use in France will be shipped from this country, in response to a request from the Commissioner to France. An appropriation of $153,102 has been made by the War Council for this purpose.

Mr. R. W. Rowland of Hardinsburg assisted in the management of an ice cream supper held at the Hendrick school house, Saturday evening, Sept. 7th and when the affair had been concluded and all expenses paid, Mr. Rowland turned in $13 to the Hardinsburg Red Cross Chapter.

The Hites Run Chapter of the Red Cross which is a branch of the Cloverport Chapter, turned into the later society, $31.30 recently, which it made in giving an ice cream supper in the Hites Run community. This chapter deserves especial commendation because of its limited number of members, but evidently it is made up of quality and not so much quantity.

Mr. L. Walker of Hardinsburg of Hardinsburg is a patriot and a devotee of the Red Cross work in that he will not sell ice cream to be sold by others unless they promise to give their profit to the Red Cross.

The Cloverport Red Cross Chapter room is open on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday afternoons of every week. The women have begun on the cotton sewing and apron they are cutting out and making women's morning jackets and under skirts for 12 year old girls.

The chairman of the sewing department desires to have as many women to help in this work as will come and do either cutting, machine or finger work.

Corp. Tilford Returned to Camp.

Corp. Paul Tilford, Co. B. 309th Engineers 84th Division of Camp Mills, Long Island has returned to his camp after spending a furlough with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Tilford of Fordsville.

Corp Tilford was a promising young railroad man, being employed in the L. H. & St. L. R. R before entering service, and now he is making equally as good a soldier for Uncle Sam.

BEWLEYVILLE

Several from here attended the State Fair.

Miss Mollie Clarkson after several weeks visit with Mrs. Pierce Hardaway has returned to her home in Louisville.

Miss Mary Louise Hardaway left Monday for Russellville where she will attend Logan College.

Edgar Hardaway is having a fine big tobacco barn built on his farm near here.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Hardaway of Brandenburg spent the week end with his sister and brother, Miss Mattie and Mr. David Hardaway.

Misses Laura Mell Stith, Mary Foote and Thomas Hardaway and Percy Foote motored to Louisville, Saturday and attended the State Fair.

Miss Mollie Clarkson and Mrs. C. P. Hardaway were dinner guests of Miss Lola Clarkson, Thursday.

Mrs. Z. T. Stith entertained the following to dinner Wednesday, Mesdames D. C. Heron, E. P. Hardaway, Louisville; Mary Heron, Bevie Cain and Naomi Costa of Brazil.

Mrs. Del Lashbrook has returned to her home in Owensboro after a visit to her sister, Mrs. G. O. Blanford.

Mrs. Belle Kasey, Rosetta spent several days last week with her sister, Mrs. S. J. McCoy.

When you have backache, rheumatism or kidney trouble, try Sandoz. It does wonders for the liver, kidneys and bladder. A trial 50c bottle will convince you. Get it at the drug store.

What is a Branch House?

The Branch House is the place in the packing organization where what the packing plant does for you is put where you can use it.

Both are the natural result of growth and development in the living thing they belong to.

Swift & Company Branch Houses are located in distributing centers all over the country. They are fitted out with refrigerating equipment to keep meat cool, sweet and fresh.

Each one is in personal charge of a man who believes in what Swift & Company is doing for people and wants to help do it.

They are directed by men who have spent years learning how to get better meat cheaper to the places where it is needed.

Meat is shipped to the branch houses direct from the packing plants in Swift & Company's refrigerator cars, in such quantities that it can be disposed of while fresh and sweet.

Your meat dealer comes here to buy your meat for you—unless someone else can treat him better than we can.

So you need the branch house in order to live well; and the branch house and the packing plant need each other, in order to be useful to you.

Swift & Company, U. S. A.

your Uncle Fuller is made of. The boys first and last all the time. Go to it, son, I'm for you. Get in the training good and strong, and ride the briny deep and help topuncture enough holes in that bunch over there so that you can see through them. Shoot them up in the air so high that the bluebirds will build a nest in them before they hit the ground. You bet! That's the spirit. Don't be afraid of that big, fat-bellied bunch that think they can whip the world. I wouldn't give you for the whole lot of pot lickers over there. You are in a fight to death for your adopted country. Stand for the things that our God would have us stand for first, to guide you in life, and you will come out victorious. My prayer each day to God is to spare our boys that they may come back home and tell of their experiences. Best wishes, son, and hope this will help to break the long felt want for a letter from somebody. Yours truly, JOHN T. DITTO. Chicago, Aug. 19, 1918. There's good red blood in this man's veins. The preceding article was published in the Editorials of the Chicago Herald and Examiner and is indeed most readable.

From R. R. Payne. Guston, Ky., Sept. 9, 1918. Mr. J. D. Babbage. Dear Sir: Please to pay my subscription to the News find enclosed check for three dollars for year 1918 and 1919. Many thanks for sending the paper along. Yours Respectfully, R. R. Payne.

From Miss Rebecca Ricketts. Mr. John D. Babbage, Cloverport, Ky. Dear Sir: Enclosed you will find $1.50 money order for which please send to the following address The Breckenridge News for one year. Yours very truly, Rebecca Ricketts, Schlater, Miss.

TWO LETTERS.

In the "Letters to the Editor" column in this newspaper the following appeared yesterday under the heading "Where Are This Man's Friends?" To the Editor of the Herald and Examiner: Sir—I am in the army because I love the United States just as much as I do my native country, Greece, but won't somebody kindly write me a letter?

Before leaving Chicago I had a host of friends, both male and female, but since I entered training here I haven't received a letter from any of them. So, if you have space, please print a few lines to let my friends know my address here.

SPEROS THANOS, Care C. & B. School, Camp Sherman, Ohio.

Here is one friend he has found. Read this next letter and ask yourself the question: Am I doing all I can to render the life of these boys less lonely?

To Speros Thanos, Camp Sherman, O. Dear Sir—

I don't know you, but, by gosh! I won't let you suffer, so here goes for what it's worth. I am a down-state high-brow from Decatur, Ill., floating around up here in the city for a week or two in the interest of my firm.

This morning my eye fell on the inclosed clipping in the Herald and Examiner and boy, I know what it is to want to get letters when away from your old stamping ground. I get as hungry for them as a dog for a bone.

Well, boy I am glad to lend this much of my time to one who's gone to the front to uphold this country and to fight my end of the battle there. Owing to my age near the 60 mark—all I can do is to stay back here and conserve all I can, and "kick in" with all the spare change I can to help take care of the boys.

Every old-time sacrifice to give has become a positive pleasure. At the hotels, out on the road, I tell them to give me one egg and the other to the boys, and one spoon of sugar and two to the boys behind the guns. That's the kind of stuff

Extra Trousers Free

With Suits tailored to your measure and to your liking from New Fall Materials at any of the following prices: $18.50, $20.00, $22.50, $25.00, $27.50, $30.00 and up to $37.50.

Worth your while coming to Louisville just to get in on this remarkable bargain. In these war times, there could be but one good reason to justify such an offering as this. That reason is: we're new—to Louisville and Kentucky. In the short time we've been here, we number our patrons by the hundreds. But we want still more to know that our boast that we are "the fastest growing tailors in Louisville" is not an idle one.

Trousers Alone Worth $6.00 or More.

These extra trousers that we give you free are made from the short lengths left from suits. We include our finest wools. We give you choice—pick the best. Some of these trousers are worth as much as $10.00.

Come on and see for yourself.

PERSHING'S ARMY IS MADE UP OF THIRTY DIVISIONS

Information Not Divulged as to the Exact Number Engaged in Offensive.

METZ OBJECTIVE OF DRIVE

Great Force Now Hammering the Huns Consists of Men From All Parts of the United States—
Makeup of Units.

Washington, Sept. 14.—America's first field army, reported as participating in America's first big offensive on the fighting front, is composed of five corps, each corps made up of six divisions. Information has not yet been divulged as to the exact number of the divisions engaged. An announcement of the makeup of the first field army follows:

First Corps—1st, 2d, 26th, 42d, 41st and 32d divisions, under Major General Liggett.

Second Corps—77th, 35th, 82d, 30th,
28th and 4th divisions, under Major General Bullard.

Third Corps—3d, 5th, 78th, 80th, 33d and 27th divisions, under Major General Wright.

Fourth Corps—37th, 83d, 89th, 29th,
30th and 92d divisions, under Major General Reed.

Fifth Corps—6th, 39th, 76th, 79th,
85th and 91st divisions, under Major General Bundy.

Makeup of Units.

The 1st corps is made up as follows:
First division of regulars, Major General Sumner; 2d division of regulars, Major General Leggett; 27th or New England division Major General Edwards; the 32d division of Michigan and Wisconsin Guardsmen, Major General Hain; 1st or "Sunset" division of Guardsmen from the far West and Pacific coast, Major General
Alexander, and the 42d or "Rainbow" division, Major General Monro.

The 2d army corps, under General Bullard, is composed of the 4th division of regulars, Major General Cameron; 28th division Pennsylvania Guard, Major General Muir; 30th division North and South Carolina and Tennessee Guard, Major General
Lewis; 35th division Missouri and Kansas guard, Major General Traub; 77th or "Metropolitan" division, Major General Duncan; 82d division selective draft men from Georgia, Alabama and Florida, Major General Burnham.

The 3d army corps is composed of the 3d division of regulars, Major General Dickman; 5th division regulars, Major General McMahon; 27th division, New York guard, Major General
O'Ryan; 33d division Illinois guard,
Major General Bell; 78th division,
New York and Delaware selective draft troops, Major General McRae;
80th division, New Jersey, Virginia,
Maryland and District of Columbia draft, Major General Cronkhite.

Fourth Corps.

The 4th army corps consists of the 20th division, New Jersey, Virginia, Delaware, Maryland and District of Columbia guard, Major General Morton; 37th division Ohio guardsmen, Major General Farnsworth; 83d National army division of Ohio and Pennsylvania, Major General Glenn; 89th division selective draft men from seven Western states, Brigadier General Winn; 90th division Texas and Oklahoma, Major General Allen; 92d division negro selective draft men, Major General Ballou.

Fifth army corps consists of the 6th division regulars, Brigadier General Erwin; 36th division Texas and Oklahoma guard troops, Major General Smith; 76th division of New England draft, Major General Hodges; 70th division Pennsylvania and Maryland
National army, Major General Kuhn;
85th division Michigan and Wisconsin
National army, Major General Kennedy; 85th division National army from Pacific and far Western states, under Brigadier General Foltz.

It must be remembered, however, that since this arrangement was made some of these divisions have been sent into action with the French and British commands now attacking the Hindenburg line.

Reforestation in France.

The Pennsylvania department of forestry has offered to the French government 4,000,000 tree seedlings as an aid to that country in reforesting the shell-torn woods in eastern France.
The offer is commended everywhere.
Though at present France is unable to do much in the way of rehabilitating her devastated lands, the sympathy that is being extended to her from all parts of the globe shows that when the proper time comes she will not lack the material means to recoup herself from the terrible afflictions she has suffered.—Pathfinder.

Will Exercise His Right.

"I am probably"—it is Father Van Quentia speaking—"the only man in Kansas City who last winter did not say, 'If I ever live until another summer, I will never complain, no matter how hot it gets.' I complained last winter, but I reserved the right to complain again this summer if the weather doesn't suit me. So if hot winds come, you may expect to hear from me."—

Mr. Editor we know that you are in no humor this hot weather for being bothered with spring poets in the fall and it isn't often we drag our poetical talent before the limelight but this is important. It might end the war. Listen as Kaiser Bill went up the hill he looked back and saw Horris Tucker, Paul Lewis, Bernard

Morrisson, Will Mitchell, Herman Waggoner, James McGovern, Bernard Lewis, Walter Wisenberg, Joe Burke, Floyd Carter, coming. He stretched his neck and said by heck I'll leave this earth a running. Don't think that you have to join the army to get into trouble. We got in bad last week. It didn't happen in Berlin either. Was unhitching old Dobbin in the hitch lot of St. Rose a man came flitting by me mistook for Richard May. We said, "Hello Uncle Dick" when we awoke we found it was Edward Whitehead. He came at us like a hot biscuit. He said Mull as this is the first trouble I have had for sometime will let you down easy but if this happens again you will have to apologise the second time.

IN WAR TIME

Americans Try to Get Close to Real Life.

WHAT A "DOUGHBOY" SAW

It All Looked and Tasted Good Until He Came to the Strange Mixture—Tries to Dodge Solemn Functions Arranged in His Honor—Interested in Romantic Signs on the British Saloons.

At a ball game the other day I picked up a "doughboy," who in the course of conversation made some quite friendly but critical remarks on British hospitality in peace times.

He said that in the old days when an American came to London with a note of introduction he would be taken to lunch or dinner at a club or smart restaurant, and that was the end of it, whereas when a Briton arrived in New York with introductions his host would buy America and give it to him to do what he liked with.

So I took this to heart and when I next met him I gave him the whole day. He was much pleased with the romantic signs of British saloons—the "Bald Faced Stag," the "Hare and Hounds," the "Rising Sun," the "Yorkshire Grey." He was much amused with the British royal ceremonies and the romenclature of titles. "Say, how you keep this dope in your head has me bent—knights, then other fellows, harts, yer majesties, yer graces, yer dookships—gee!"

The First Mishap.

And my own notions of America and things American tickled him to death. Toward evening I took him to a West End bar and with the greatest good will presented him with what I had always thought was a Manhattan cocktail.

He looked grieved. "Say," he protested, "what've I done that you should wish this on me?"

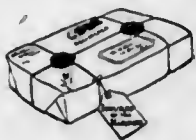

"Oh, I thought you'd like something to remind you of home."

"Remind me of home? What d'ye call it?"

"It's a Manhattan cocktail." "Manhattan nothing! Listen here! If any downtown barkeep pulled this stuff on me and called it a Manhattan, say, I guess there'd be immortality for that barkeep next day. Manhattan? I laugh. Guess you don't know the first

HIS LETTERS.

From The New York Sun.
I'd like to write a letter home and pour out all my woes,
And tell the old folks how my socks are minus heels and toes,
And what I'd give to have a piece of mom's fried chicken now,
And how all fired sick I get of eating army chow,
And that I'd take it kindly if they'd send me some tobacco
And tins of talc to soothe the bites that put me on the rack,
And that I wish they'd pay the tin I borrowed off Bill Draper—
But dad would surely go and put my missive in the paper.

I'd love to write my brother Joe about the demoiselle—
Who does my washing in the creek and does it mighty well.
Her eyes are soft as velvet, and her cheek is like a peach.
And "parley voo, M'sien," to me she's volunteered to teach.
But there is Susie Simpson—she'd get mad and publish all
The gush I used to pen to her the nights I couldn't call
About her rosebud lips, you know, and waist so trim and taper,
For everything a soldier writes these days goes in the paper.

So when I sit me down to scrawl a hasty page or two Addressed to dad or mom or Joe across the billows blue,
I merely say it rained today the mud is getting fine,
And we are busy reeling in the far flung German line,
And I've received a medal that the C. O. pinned on me,
Or D. S. O. or Cross de Guerre or maybe a V. C.,
For decorations seems just now to be the proper caper,
And all a soldier's letters home are printed in the paper.

Minna Irving.

Last Letter Before He Sailed.

This letter from Ira D. Stone was written to his former school teacher and school mates just before he sailed for France, in answer to a letter to him written by the Rhodes school at McDaniels.

Camp Mills, Long Island, N. Y. Sept. 3, 1918. Miss Florence Rhodes: Your note received and it was certainly appreciated. Am glad you were so thoughtful and kind to write those encouraging words. You haven't got the least idea how much better I felt after reading them. In return I send you, the teacher of our school also your pupils from the oldest to the youngest my heartiest thanks and regards.

We are leaving tonight for a place somewhere I am not supposed to tell. It certainly is a pleasure to me to bear hardships for old glory, but I hardly call it hardships after all, I will do my duty for my country to the best of my ability without a murmur. So all of you bear in mind that I will be fighting for the rights of all who love our flag.

I have no other thought only that the Allies will win this war, and that I will come back to enjoy life in the C. S. A. I again give you all my best wishes, I hope you will all live to see the victory won against the Huns, for they shall not rule the country. I will be glad to hear from all of you when ever you care to write.

Yours sincerely,
Ira D. Stone,

thing about it. Gimme some British ale. Here's how."

He had one special point in common with the average British Tommy; he hated those solemn "functions" arranged for his entertainment. He didn't want to be bothered with high-brow receptions and amateur musical shows in the West End. What he most wanted, he said, was to foregather with an individual Englishman and visit his suburban home and have a chat and a real English wartime meal.

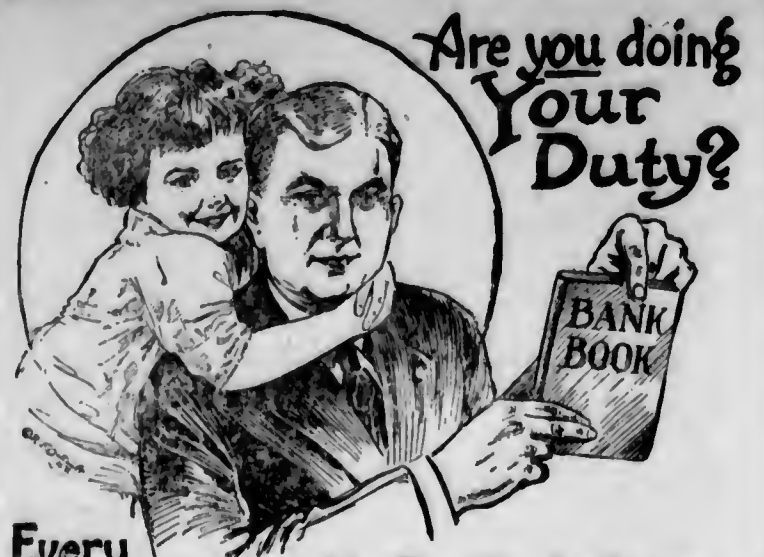

The Real Friendship Bond.

High officials and diplomats of either country always are telling each other across official luncheon tables that Anglo-American friendship is now sealed, but remarks of this kind are forceless, until they are backed by the individual feeling of the common stay-at-home people on either side. They are now able to "get next" and as soon as American soldiers know something of the intimate home life of the hard-working middle class and their outlook on life there'll be something to write home about.

My "doughboy" made a date of his next leave, when I am to take him to see the happy home of my old friend, "Uncle Toby," a gate keeper at one of the big docks. We parted at a tube station, singing, in duet, the "Tipperary" of the American troops, set to an air of Sullivan's:

Hail, hail, the gang's all here!
What th'ell do we care?
Hail, hail, the gang's all here!
So what th'ell do we care now?

Men should be careful to know that they are correct before speaking and writing about roads, else the fruit of their efforts may not be worth gathering.

Believing that it is the duty of every person who enjoys the freedom and privileges of citizenship in our great Country to do his utmost to help win the war, the following firms and individuals have patriotically contributed the money to pay for this and other advertisements of the Fourth Liberty Loan:

Read the casualty lists in the papers and ask yourself: "How long shall I permit this to go on?" There is only one answer: "I will do my utmost to help equip and put into the field an American army that will make short work of the hun and put a stop to the shedding of American blood."

Be a Volunteer

September 28th and 29th Will Be Volunteer Days

On these days everyone will be given an opportunity to step up and buy bonds without being solicited to do so. Places will be designated where volunteer subscriptions will be received. These places will be announced in the papers and by signs. Your card will be on file there. Cards of those who do not volunteer will be used for active solicitation, which will begin Monday, September 30th. No one will be overlooked.

Do not wait for some one to come after your subscription. Show that you, too, can volunteer for your Country's service, just as our boys "over there" did.

Figure out now the very maximum you can subscribe. Be ready when Volunteer Days come. This is no time for half-way measures. Half-way measures won't push our

The hope of the world lies in the sons of America.

They are "Over there" now—a million and a half strong; they are going over daily—a million and a half more of them. Another million and a half are waiting for the call that soon will come.

Those who have been under fire have demonstrated superbly the qualities that make fighters—they have shown that the barbarous hun is no match for them.

Many an American son has gone down—has made the supreme sacrifice for his Country and liberty. Before the german horde is driven back within its own borders, many more American sons will go down. How many, depends upon us at home.

A small American army, no matter how brave, will inevitably suffer severe casualties. A gigantic American army will overwhelm the hun and bring quick victory with the least loss of life.

The lives of our sons are in our hands. The boys are ready, willing and eager. They must be trained and equipped. No time must be lost. It is up to us to provide the money necessary to make these boys invincible. We must do it and do it quickly. With our own sons already in the fight, every day's delay lays at our own doors the blood of brave American sons.

boys across the Rhine. It is up to us to buy bonds with every uninvested dollar we own, plus every dollar we can save by careful, frugal living for six months to come.

You don't have to pay all cash for your bonds. You can make your first payment from cash in the bank, and take care of the balance out of your daily, weekly or monthly savings.

The forced saving you do now will mean a nice nest egg later, for the bonds you buy now and pay for as you go along, will prove a splendid investment that will pay you a good interest every six months. After the war, the bonds will be worth more than you paid for them. Don't hesitate to do your duty and do it quickly. "Don't let the SON go down."

WOUNDED YANKS LAUGH AT DEATH

Fairly Itch to Get Back Into Fighting Line.

FEAR ONLY BODILY HARM

Bearing Marks of Shrapnel Blast and Scars of Bullets They Jest at Thought of Again Going Over the Top—Would Not Miss the Big Dings at the Front for Anything—Recount Their Experiences.

Bearing the marks of shrapnel blast, the scars of bullets or even yet a bit short of breath from the gas, American doughboys, just out of hospital, jest at the thought of again going over the top. They're glad to get away from the tedious restrictions at the base and welcome the greater liberty that awaits them at the line.

A party of these infantrymen—all from draft units—were seen recently at a great American replacement camp, some distance behind the front. Taps had just blown, the lights were out and the men were squirming about in the bunks trying to find a soft place and bantering each other as they pulled the olive drab blankets around them. The darkness must have reminded them of the times they had lain in the trenches waiting for the word to go after the Boches.

"When do we go over the top, boys?" asked one. Then from the other side of the hut: "What is the 'zero hour'?" From over in the corner a reminiscent, half-laughing voice replied: "Duck, boys; there comes the barrage."

Veterans at Twenty.
These lads, some barely past twenty-one, were already veterans of the great world war. This was their last night in the quiet and they were glad of it. In the morning they would en-train for the rail head and then go on, first by auto truck and then by foot, up to where their companies were still holding the line.

There were big dolings again at the front. Miss it? Not on your life! They looked forward to it with the same anticipation they had a year ago to a vacation along the seashore or a fishing trip through the silent mountain fastness.

"If I'm still on top six weeks from now I'll get my first service stripe," said one of them proudly. The long scar on his face showed the shrapnel had got him and gave prima facie evidence for his wound stripe. But he seemed more concerned for a service stripe than he did for a wound stripe. He had been sent to France, trained, done his bit at the front, recuperated at the hospital and was going back for more of it before he got his first six months' service stripe.

Around the door of the barracks they had been recounting their experiences after supper.

"Our engineers got bunged up pretty bad; nerry lot, them," said one "Driving an ammunition train is the real sport," said another, "especially where 'Jerry' is shelling the cross-roads."

"I like this open fighting which we're getting now," said an infantryman.

Dugout Comes in Handy.
"Open fighting is all right, but a nice, deep dugout comes in handy when the heavens begin to drop," suggested a comrade.

"It's worth lying sprawled in the mud all winter just to get up, fix your bayonet and at 'em," said another "It's fun to see the Germans run. They won't stand cold steel, boy, they just won't."

"Are you glad to get back, honest?" asked a dubious and rather doubting soldier who had spent all his time in France in the rear—in the service of supplies.

"Say, ho," replied a boyish-looking marine, "I'd rather be up there with my company taking my chances than doing light duty back at the hospital. The doc didn't want to let me go, but I insisted. He said I might not get by the final examining post, but he decided to let me try."

Afraid? These boys! Sure! They'll tell you themselves that they've been scared stiff themselves a hundred times. Afraid of bodily harm, but not afraid to die.

"You never hear the bullet thal knocks you out," said one, philosophically.

German Sentiments by German Writers

EXTRACTS

The quantity of merchandise of various kinds seized in the hostile countries is so great that the difficulty of storing it increases every day. All the Chambers of Commerce have been asked to give all possible information regarding warehouses, sheds, etc., in which these spoils may be temporarily sheltered. It is proposed to divide the merchandise among all the countries of the Empire.—Frankfurter Zeitung, January 5th, 1915.

Remember that you are the chosen people. The spirit of the Lord has descended on me because I am the Emperor of the Germans. I am the instrument of the Most High. I am His sword, His representative. Disaster and death to those who resist my will. Disaster and death to those who do not believe in my mission.—The Kaiser, Address to the Army of the East.

We must win, because, if we were defeated, no one in the whole world could any longer cherish any remnant of belief in truth and right, in the Good, or, indeed, in any higher Power which wisely and justly guides the destinies of humanity.—W. Helm, Warum wir Siegen müssen.

It is only by remaining in Belgium that we shall force the English to recognize our equality with them. England must not remain master of the Belgian coast. She must be prevented from controlling an area which can be used as the starting point of a new and overwhelming Anglo-French offensive. Here lies the guarantee for the only proper relationship with England, and so for a lasting peace.—Von Bisling, Testament.

Highly developed peoples, who are unwilling to amalgamate with the victors, can be forced into reservations; or the victors will leave to the subjugated peoples a portion of their territory to which they can all retire. It requires no supernatural gift of prophecy to perceive that in course of time the Latin peoples will be weeded out.—K. Wagner, Krieg.

O my Germany, into thy soul thou must etch a deep and indelible hate. Stifle in thy heart all human feeling and hasten to the fight.

O Germany, hate. Slaughter thy foes by the millions, and of their reeking corpses build a monument that shall reach the clouds.

O Germany, hate. Salvation will come of thy wrath. Beat in their skulls with rifle-butts and axes. Let your clenched fist enforce the judgment of God.—Vierordt, Song of Hate.

NEWS FROM "OVER THERE"

Bond Purchasers Now Realize What Their Aid is Accomplishing.

The news from the Western Front has been most cheering of late, and Liberty Loan workers may take unto themselves a meed of praise for their share in it without taking one iota of the praise due to the boys in khaki at the front who have so valiantly upheld the traditions of American arms.

The people in the Eighth District, as well as throughout the nation, who have responded so wholeheartedly to the calls for funds, and have bought so freely of the Government's securities, have supplied the boys over there with the needed equipment, without which their efforts would have been in vain.

Now that victory is in sight, the response to the new demands will be met all the more cheerfully, and the Fourth Loan, no matter what the amount, will be quickly subscribed.

Every American abroad in America will provide a place on Sunday, Sept. 29—the latter of the two Volunteer Days—where subscriptions to Fourth Liberty Loan Bonds may be received.

Volunteer on Volunteer Day and send a message to the Kaiser that will sicken him of his desire to win the world.

Remember Volunteer Days—September 28 and 29.

CAR JOLT SETS THIGH

Replaces Dislocation and Crippled Man Walks.

After being in the hospital at Pottstown, Pa., for more than three weeks with a fractured leg, Constable Albert H. Keifer was able to be about with the aid of crutches. The bone had knitted all right, but he could not walk. The other day he went on a trip with his son Harry in a motortruck to Philadelphia. Near Morristown he was thrown violently against the side of the truck when it struck a ditch.

A few minutes later he discovered that he could walk with ease. Doctors explained that the officer had been suffering from a dislocated thigh which was jolted into place when the truck hit the ditch.

Y. W. C. A., the War Camp Community Service the Salvation Army, the Catholic organizations, the American Library Association and the Jewish Welfare Board.

President Wilson recently requested that these seven organizations join in a single campaign to raise the funds necessary to carry on their work this coming winter and into the new year. Prompt response was made to his request through the formation of a committee representing the seven organizations in this country that are engaged in serving our men in service, and an arrangement has been concluded by which these seven organizations will have a joint campaign from the 11th to the 18th of November for the purpose of raising $170,500,000 for the work they have in hand. By unanimous vote Dr. John R. Mott, general secretary of the Y. M. C. A., was made director-general of the campaign. The money raised will be made to go as far as it possibly can.

Now $170,500,000 is a very large sum of money, and many people will naturally wonder why so large a sum is needed for this work. The reason is found in the large number of things that these societies are called upon to do, which in a word embraces supplying, in various camps in this country and Europe, the thing which the man in service was accustomed to have through his home, his church, his theatre and his club. The more of this work that is done the more normal will be the life led by the man when he is not actually fighting and this it has been found helps most in maintaining morale.

The supplying to a million and a half men the articles necessary to play various outdoor games alone requires several million dollars. The value of this sort of service is perhaps best illustrated by an incident told in a letter recently received from a Y. M. C. A. secretary operating a hut near the front line trenches. He wrote that a number of men had come marching back from the fighting line the day before, and on reaching his hut had stopped to rest and get some coffee and sandwiches. They threw themselves down on the ground not in groups but singly and did not attempt to talk with one another. Their faces had very drawn and far away expressions, and the secretary could not arouse them in any way. A couple of hours later a Y. M. C. A. supply wagon drew up to the hut and among other things unloaded a box of bats and balls. The secretary took the box out into the field, ripped it open and threw the bats and balls to the men, who immediately jumped for them laid out a rude diamond and in a few minutes were deeply interested in a game of American baseball. There probably could not be a better illustration of what is needed in modern warfare to get the men's minds away from the awful carnage they witness when actually engaged in fighting.

Another very important reason why it is necessary to do everything possible to relieve the strain on our men is that they cannot get home for furloughs as the French and English soldiers do. To try and make up in a measure for this a large number of the biggest hotels in southern France and Switzerland have been taken over by the War Work Council of the Y. M. C. A. and are being used as recreation centres for the soldiers; so that on obtaining a furlough a man can go down there for recreation and rest.

The question is often asked why this sort of work is not done by the Government with Government funds when it is so very necessary. The answer is that to do it under military regulations would rob it of a large part of the sentiment with which it is necessary to surround the work if it is to do the most good. To have the money furnished directly by the folks at home, to have the work done by men and women who come from our homes and go into the camps to do this work brings it just that much nearer to the hearts of the men and also makes them feel when they enter one of the buildings conducted in this way that they are for the moment outside the rules and regulations of the army. This in itself is worth a great deal.

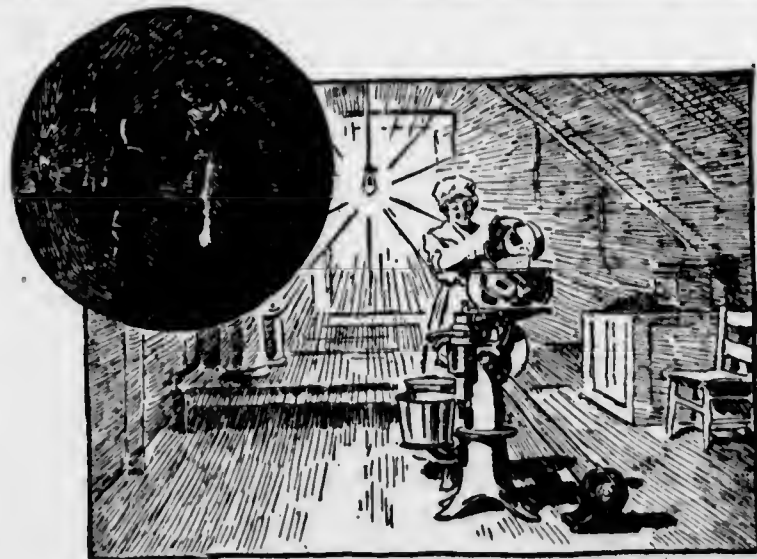

The Y. M. C. A. alone now has over 4,000 men and women engaged in this work in Europe. It has 663 buildings erected and in operation in the camps in the United States. It is today using over 1,000 buildings in Europe that it has erected, bought or rented. In these buildings religious services, representing all faiths, are conducted lectures of all kinds are delivered moving picture shows and theatrical performances are given; canteens are carried on.

From July, 1917 to September 1, 1918 the Y. M. C. A. bought and sent to Europe over 300,000 pounds of candy, 16,000,000 packages of chewing gum, 400,000 pounds of chocolate, a billion and a half of cigarettes, over 2,000,000 cans of condensed milk, 20,000,000 sheets of writing paper, 583 moving picture machines, 12,000,000 pounds of sugar and a vast number of other articles in proportion. Such figures as these show that this part of the Y. M. C. A. work is a vast business enterprise requiring large capital.

The other organizations associated in this great $170,500,000 drive are doing their share of this great work. The fact that they all are now co-operating in the work surely offers a fine promise that the morale of our men will be strengthened in every possible way and maintained at the highest point.

Is there any cause in which American dollars can be more profitably invested? George W. Perkins, Chairman, National Campaign Committee, Y. M. C. A. War Work Fund.

Courtesy For The Woman Farmer.

All possible encouragement is deserved by the patriotic women who are organizing, or rather who have organized, a "Land Army" for the purpose of remedying as well as may be the scarcity of agricultural labor created by the war in this country as in so many others. The existing emergency is so grave that natural and commendable dislikes for seeing women at work in the fields must be overcome, and overcome, also, should be the tendency of many American farmers to assume that farm work cannot be done unless there are men to do it.

The men should remember that the original farmers of all races were women, as they are today among most primitive races, and they can return temporarily to their ancient tasks under the drive of war's stern compulsion. For women to be successful in farm labor, however, their relative strength must be considered and not too much expected of them. Worked too hard, they will soon wear out, but sensibly moderate demands they can meet, and have met, wherever they have been employed.

Their hours must be shorter, their numbers larger, and the fact they cannot do as much, as a rule, as does the experienced and long-trained farm laborer is very far from proving them useless—except to those who have determined beforehand that the experiment of employing women in the field shall be a failure.
